

HONEYBEE'S LEARNING ACADEMY

presents

10 Ways Improve Your HomeScholar Experience

1. A ROUTINE.

As a homescholar, and a HomeTeacher, mixing home and school can be tough. It is important for your HomeScholar to recognize the importance of a schedule in relation to school. Routines are encouraged for your homescholar to distinguish the difference between school and home.

3. HOMETEACHER MINDSET

By now you're wondering, what is a HomeTeacher? Well, glad you asked!!!

A HomeTeacher is someone who is enhancing the life of a homescholar through academic achievement. The HomeTeacher mindset teaches learning as an opportunity to improve your life.

2. BEING ORGANIZED

Organizing your week-to-week learning can enhance your teaching experience and improve HomeScholar learner outcomes. Organization is essential when leading a school of leaders through a stellar HomeScholar experience.

4. HOMESCHOLAR MINDSET

HomeScholars are young people who are academically achieving from the comfort of their home.

A HomeScholar mindset teaches learning as an opportunity to improve your life.

5. MINUTE-TO-MOMENT LEARNING

As we know for sure, we learn something new everyday or at least we should try. Minute-to-moment learning are small opportunities throughout your day that becomes teachable moments.

 thehblearning_academy

HONEYBEE'S LEARNING ACADEMY

presents

10 Ways Improve Your HomeScholar Experience

6. SCHOLAR-LED ACTIVITIES

Learning does not always take place within a HomeSchool environment. Scholars must be able to choose and attend the activities that make them who they are. This could be anything from robotics to sewing and all in-between. Giving children autonomy (within parameters) can support them in their decision making skills. These types of activities can also be used as incentives for keeping HomeScholars on task during homeschool.

8. PROJECT-BASED LEARNING

As a HomeTeacher it is important to create hands-on learning experiences. Lecture, worksheets and activities have a rightful place, however, dig your hands into learning with weekly projects to engage with HomeScholar and HomeTeacher.

7. EXPLORATIVE FIELD TRIPS

Exploration is a huge part of a child's imagination. Travel by car, boat, train or bus to explore throughout your city, state and/or country. Make learning a natural part of travel by creating learning experiences. From museums to strawberry fields. Get out there and explore!

9. LIFE SKILL DEVELOPMENT

As a young scholar, I took a class called HomeEconomics. In this class we learned the basic life skills needed to survive. We studied everything from how to sew a button, to how to boil spaghetti noodles. Let's get into HomeSkills.

10. AN ENGAGING ACADEMICALLY RIGOROUS CURRICULUM

Honeybee's Learning Academy provides you with access to all of the above. Our resources are designed with your scholar in mind. We want to ensure you are ready to support and educate your HomeScholar to enhance HomeSchooling Academic Achievement.

 thehblearning_academy

